For several days past an Intelligences rapidly falling into disuse, and as a consecommissioner has been engaged at odd quence, a dispidated appearance of things prevails, and we doubt not that a few times, in tracing the history of the cemeteries in and around this city. This work teries in and around this city. This work There is but one vault in this cemetery, has been one of great pleasure because we which belongs to the Paull family, and have learned much of the early history contains the remains of the late Thomas Paull and his family. brand out.

THE Republican City Executive Committee will meet at 'Squire Wm. Philips' office, Saturday night.

THE M. M. D. Society will give a masof Wheeling and Ohio county, in the course of our walks and talks with those who are tamiliar with such history.

In some instances, the work has been very easy, but in others it was unsatisfac very easy, but in others it was unsatisfactory and information was exceedingly hard to procure. This latter, of course, applies to the older cemeterries, and those that have not been in use for many years.

The results of our investigations we site, with the following named gentlement. The results of our investigations we give below, and while they may not be entirely accurate, still they are substantially correct and are authenticated by the testimony of many of the oldest citizens in this city.

THE FIRST CEMETERY.

In the earliest history of the town of Wheeling we find that there was a small city cemetery, situate in North Wheeling, apon the sites of the residences of George city cemetery, situate in North Wheeling, upon the sites of the residences of George K. Wheat, Jacob Snyder and the late Wm. Sbriver. This cemetery was in existence up until probably 1818 or 1820, may be not so long as that, our authorities differ in regard to the time; Isaac Irwin, E-q., who was born in 1805, remembers the graves, but not much more. It is said this cemetery was removed to make room for the Northwestern Bank, the successor of which is the National Bank of West Virginia, of to-day.

Mr. George K. Wheat, in excavating for a foundation for his residence, some years ago, unearthed a large number of bones, relies of the graveyard, which he boxed up and buried in Greenwood.

THE BOGGS RUN CEMETERY

just below the limits of Wheeling, in Mar shall county, on the hill-side above the mouth of Boggs Run, is a very old cemetery, one of the oldest in this neighbor tery, one of the oldest in this neighbor-hood. It is not very large, and was used by the early settlers of this section as a place of interment. Our reporter was most assiduous in his efforts to ascertain something of the early history and inci-dents of this cemetery, but could glean nothing beyond what we have given above.

THE STONE CHURCH CEMETERY. Just beyond Elm Grove, south of the National road, is a church that has played an important part in our local history. We refer to the stone church erected by the Shepherds many years "go, and for a

This graveyard was a very old one, and in it were buried a majority of the citizens of Wheeling for a period of over thirty-five years. In looking over the records in the county clerk's office, we found that the deed conveying these grounds to the city was made October 5. 1816, by Noah Zine and Mary his wife, to retary of State's office, are at Washington, D. The crowded condition of what is now known as the Hempfield Cemetery, together with the immineut prospect of its site, with the following named gentlemen as members of the company, and who also signed the application for an incorporation: Thomes Sweeney, Moses C. Good, Henry Moore, Neil McNaughten, Morgan Nelson, Alfred Caldwell and J. M. Bushfield. A meeting was held soon after for the purpose of organization, and at this meeting John McLure, Sr., presided, while F. W. Bassett acted as Secretary.
These gentlemen became permanent officers and John R. Morrow was elected Treasurer. Mr. McLure was afterwards acceeded as President by John Gosborn and he by John Bishop, E-q, who held the office until the time of his death when Robert Campbell, Eq., was elected, and is first Secretary and continued in that office until 1871 when Mr. I. H. Williams was elected. The first directors were John McLure, S. P. Hulliben, James E. Wbarton, John R. Morrow, M. Edwards, H. K. List, Wm. McCoy, Philip Sutton, and F. W. Bassett. The grounds, we are informed, at first

The grounds, we are informed, at first comprised over twenty acres, and were laid out by Robert Woods, E-10, in beautiful style. Mt. Wood, from its naturally beautiful and attractive situation, at once becume the popular cemetery not only of the city of Wheeling, but lots were purchased by residents of the country roundabout. It is situ-ted on an eminence immediately east of Norh Wheeling, and from it an unobstructed view of the country in all directions for miles and miles is obtained. For many years the grounds obtained. For many years the grounds were neatly and tastefully kept, the walks were graveled and bordered, and were well st ended to; the vaults were neat and well at ended to; the vaults were neat and attractive, the shrutbery was fresh and brew Cemelery. This cemetery is not a beautiful, and there was no cemetery in large one and from its situation can not be the west that presented a more inviting laid out to any advantage, yet it is taste-appearance, but of late years, or since the testablishment of Green wood, there is not in monuments and headstons in it. It was me appearance of things that was establishment of Green wood, there is not the same appearance of things that was admirable and noticeable a decad ago. We do not mean by what we have said to underestimate or underrate what is still a beautiful grave-yard, but there is something about it now that shows the beginning of its decline. Some of the stones are inclining, and upon

Some of the stones are inclining, and upo others the inscriptions are faded and worther results of the effects of sulphur and the elements; then too the tombs generally do not show that care and attention that are necessary to keep them at all times pre-sentable, but this, we apprehend, is attrib-utable to the fact that the friends of many who are interred in them are either gon who are interred in them are either gone from the city or have ceased to take au interest in beautifying them. These remarks and strictures are the results of visits to the cemetery. Many of the tombs, however, and by far the larger part of them, are in very good condition, indeed, some of them are really beautiful, and show the effects of tender care and love in every little particular of adornment and embellishment.

in every little particular of adornment and embellishment.

In Mt. Wood there are eight vaults owned by the following families: First, the vault erected by Iesac Cotts in 1803 This vault is situated on the drive which winds around the base of the hill, and is not far from the turnstile near the superintendent's house. There are quite a number of coffins in this vault, containing the remains of the members of the family, and probably such others as the courtesy of the owners has permitted to occupy it.

Near by this vault is another very handsome one owned by Mr. John L. Hobbs, while just beyond, but below the drive, is the vault of the late John Bishop, who died a few years ago, and whose remains are laid in it. In this vault are also several coffins, the names of whose occupants were unknown to our informant.

We next came upon the family vault of

Gen. Shriver, and just beyond this are those of the Ott family, erected by Samuel Ott. Upon the summit of the mount here are two vaults, one the property of D. C. and H. K., and the other of the late

Capt John List, although unoccupied at present, the family of the latter having removed his remains to Greenwood. The superintendent of Mt. Wood is Mr. Levi Noble, who lives near the grounds and gives them all the attention one man can possibly do. He informed our commissioner that his individual efforts were instanced to the superintendent of the su Levi Noble, who lives near the grounds and gives them all the attention one man can possibly do. He informed our commissioner that his individual efforts were insidequate to the demands upon them, but he did the best he could. The walks need gravel, some of them attention and the cemetery in general much more care that it gets. There are quite a number of lots enclosed by palling fonces, and many of them are becoming unpainted, old and are falling down gradually, all of which deleted the present time the entrance to the cemetery is the large drive which concluses of nuos who die in this community, and here also are several mounds, all well kept and tastefully armounds, all well kept and tastefully and tastefully armounds, all well kept and tastefully armounds, all well kept and tastefully armounds, all well kept and tastefull ract very much from the appearance of

The order of Redmen is a rather large and influential one in this community and one of the tribes, Logan No. 21, feel and one of the tribes, Logan No. 21, feeling the necessity of a suitable place for interring themselves and their families, in 1862 purchased from James S. Porter a lov of ground containing seven acres, situate on the west side of Chapline Hill, on the alope just above the Riverside forge, in Centre Wheeling. This ground so far as it has been possible has been laid out and improved and is in tolerably fair condition. The number of interments there is not large. arge.

MT. ZION CEMETERY

is nicely located about one mile up Caldwell's Run. It is the property of Zion's Lutheran congregation. The grounds con sist of about six acres, which were bought from Mr. Caldwell in the summer of 1863, from Mr. Caldwell in the summer of 1863, and converted into a cemetery. The first corpse, a child, Anna Hofmeister, west buried on the 22d of November, the same year. Part of the grounds was laid out in lots 16 feet square to the number of 445, ail of which, with the exception of about 100, have since been sold. There is still enough ground left to lay out about 200 more left. There have been interred no more lots. There have been luterred up to the present date 1,012 corpses. There are as yet no vaults on the grounds. Quite a large number of fine monuments may be seen, among which may be mentioned those belonging to Mra. J. Heislein, Mrs. Seabricht, Mrs. Kochnlein, Fred. Bromer, Mrs Hofmeister, Eckhard, Otte, and others. The cemetery is governed by a board elected by the members of Zion's congregation, the present officers being: President, Rev. O. Meerwein; Secretaries, A. Soldan and Conrad. Shepp; Trustees, Louis Filmar and A. Rolf. Mr. Wm. Hofmeister, the ever faithful sexton, has been on duty almost since the beginning. This cemetery is kept in good repair, and is patronized not only especially by members of the Zion's congregation, but by our citizens generally. a large number of fine monuments may be generally.

GREENWOOD CEMETERY is by all odds the largest, best arranged, and most beautiful cemetery in Ohio county. It is situated four miles out the National road, and is bounded by the creek tional road, and is bounded by the creek on the south, the farm of Hugh Clark on the east, by the National road on the north and by the lands of John Reid, ar., on the west. The ground slopes gently to the south, and on many accounts is admirably adapted to the purposes for which it is in present use. It is very large just now and the indications are that it will be much larger. On the third day of March, 1896 a certificate of incorporation was issued by Granville D. Hall, Secretary of State, to the following named gentlemen: Dr. Eugene A. Hildreth, Elmund Bocking, R. G. Jordan, W. M. List, S. P. Hildreth, C. H. Berry, James Reid, A. W. Campbell, Guorge Adams, J. S. Rhodes, J. G. Muth and P. C. Hildreth.

An election of officers took place soon

An election of officers took place soon after at which A. J. Sweeney was elected President and R. C. Bonham, Secretary. after at which A. J. Sweeney was elected President and R. C. Bonham, Secretary. The books were then opened to the public and subscriptions rapidly taken. The following named gentlemen were elected directors: A. J. Sweeney, George Adams, J. G. Muth, John A. Armstrong, Joseph Bell, R. G. Jordan and George Mendel. The grounds, consisting of thirty-seven and a half acres, were purchased from the Hildreth brothers. Dr. E. A., P. C. and S. P. for the sum of $11,120.91.

As soon as the grounds were purchased they were taken in charge by civit engineer, James Gilchrist, who proceeded to lay out the cometery into its present bean-neer, James Gilchrist, who proceeded to lay out the cemetery into its present beautiful proportions, and so well and artistically did he fulfill his contract that he rendered every part of the grounds available and nearly all the lots desirable and eligible. Lots were at once sold to those wishing them, the grounds were tastefully enclosed by paling fences, two neat cottages for the convenience of the keepers were erected at the main entrance and every means at hand was resorted to make the new purchase attractive and b-amiful. The new lots were speedily improved, with shrubbery, flowers and whatever serves to beautify and adoro.

The first interment in Greenwood took place July 224, 1866, when the remains of Mr. Carelland, and the contractions and the contraction of the Carelland and the Care the cemetery is the large drive which continues for quite a distance or until the main part of the grounds is reached, and then two roads wind around the grounds, and again converge at the lower end; from these drives numerous other smaller ones branch off and wind in and around the cemetery until there is a perfect labyrinth of sinuans carriage drives and graveled walks. These walks and drives are all Iringed with trees and bordered by shrubbery of all descriptions. The lots are all well tended, and in splendid condition, while upon many of them are as fine monuments and grave-

Joseph Caldwell, John Donlon and others are situated near the central and southern parts of the cemetery. A heavy Scotch gracite base supporting a beautiful and unique glass urn, erected over the remains of the late Michael Sweeney attracts visitors to that spot. Mr. Sweeney was mapy years a glass masufacturer in this locality, and the beautiful urn is a tribute to his efforts in that direction.

Near the center of the cemetery is the only vanit within its limits and this was erected by the family of the late Dr. Riebard Cummins for the reception of his gromains.

Greenwood is in charge of Andrew when, an intelligent land-cape gardener d a competent and efficient superindent, and the beautiful condition of cemetery is attributable to his efforts and attention.

CATHOLIC CEMETRIES.

Prior to the year 1850 or 1851, the Roman Catholics of this city had no regular, or rather no peculiar place for burying their leads, but disposed of them in the various grasswards of the city. When, however.

moved to the new cemetery from the Hempfield and other graveyards, and in a few years became quite full.

In 1866 or in 1867 an effort was made to start another place of burial near the city, and what is now Leatherwood, was chosen as the site. A very beautiful piece of ground was purchased near the toll house and set apart by the Bishop for this purpose, and the movement went so far that a few removals had been made, when the residents of the rural village rebelled against the project, and carried the thing into the Courts of Onio county on sanitary principles, aligning that the presence of a graveyard so close to their residences had a tendency to contaminate the water. Experts were present from New York, Philadelphia, Cincinnati and this city to prove the contrary, and the cemetery representatives had the best of the case. Nothing daunted, however, the Leatherwood folks went into the Legislature, had their village incorporated, and then passed municipal laws against the locating of cemuleties within the corporation limits which municipal iswa against ne locating or cen-teries within the corporation limits which "effectually squelched" the movement, and again set the church to looking for another site. J. D. DuBois, Esq. now owns and occupies these grounds. Bishop Whelan was appealed to by many of his flock to do something looking to the es-tablishment of another one, but he not exists capitly, enough to suit some of vary, four miles east of this city. These grounds were purchased from the late Edward Larkin and S. H. B. Carter, and were original.

Bishop Whelan at once went to work improving his new purchase, and superintended the laying out of the cemetery himself. The purchase was made in May 1872, and the first interment followed in September. In the meantime, however, a neat and beautiful pating fence had been erected around the entire grounds; sucured and the service of t other at pleasing intervals. Lots were laid out in a novel and attractive manner and shrubbery and flowers were already springing up in many a lot. During life Bish-p Whelan gave this enterprise his Bish-p Whelan gave this enterprise his untiring attention, and the beautiful and attractive cemetery of to day is the result. Mr. Waiter Burke was appointed superintendent by the Bishop, and has proven himself the right man in the right place. The grounds are in splendid condition the walks are graveled and bordered, the grass of the lots trummed, and the shrubble bery is in the best possible condition. Paved gutters flank every drive, and under the entire grounds there is a complete system of sewers. deposited in this cemetery, in a lot in the centre, and soon after his decease steps were taken looking to the erection of a were taken looking to the erection of a chapel that would at once be a memorial to the deceased prelate, and a matter of convenience to those who wished to hold services in the grounds, or to those Catholics who lived in the neighborhood, as it would serve them for a place of Divine worship at stated periods. The cornerstone of this chapel was laid by Bishop Kain August 27, 1876, with appropriate ceremonies. The building was finished in 1879, and the altar blessed by Bishop Kain November 18, 1879, at which time a very large crowd was present, together with a large number of priests, students, sesistants and others.

city. Pirates of Penzynce. — To-morrow night D'Oylry Carte's famous company will give Gilbert and Sullivan's comic opera, the "Pirates of Penzance," at the Opera House. Our people will remember this splendid company's appearance in the city last year. Of it the New York Sun aavs:

"As for a comparison with 'that infer Whelan was appealed to by many of his flock to do something looking to the establishment of another one, but he not acting quickly enough to suit some of the stem, they went to work for themselves and purchased a tract of land from Wm. Porter, Esq. up Elgington's Lane, and were proceeding to adapt it to their purpose when they were arrested by the announcement from the Bishop that he had completed arrangements for the establishment of a cemetery. This announcement anaturally embarrassed the purchasers of the Porter land, as they found themselves hands, but the Bishop relieved them of with a large tract of valuable land on their their purchase, and directed their attention to his own, which was superior in every respect to theirs, and which is the present beautiful and attractive Mt. Calvary, four miles east of this city. These There is an underlying current of humor, which shows the talent of Mr. Gilbert in this peculiar line, and it would be impos-sible for a confirmed misanthrope to refrain from merriment over it. It is very well put upon the stage, and is picturesque from first to last. The amusement that is were originally a portion of the extensive estate of the latter. There are about thirtyfrom first to last. The amusement that is caused by incongrueus situations, and the abaurd gravity with which the pretended seriousness of certain scenes is carried out, were the cause of irrepressible laughter last night. The text isso full of points that it can hardly be appreciated at a single hearing."
